

- Key:
- Indicative extent of limited intervention work
 - 3 National Record of the Historic Environment (NRHE)

Title:
Archaeology

Project:
Flat Cliffs PAR

Client:
Scarborough Borough Council

Date:
March 2016

Scale at A4:
1:5,000

Figure:
2.4

Drawn:
TC

Checked:
SR

Number on drawing	Pastscape ID	Description
1	1452724	Second World War pillbox. This structure is no longer in situ as a result of coastal erosion.
2	1426642	Concrete cylinder, possibly the remains of a Second World War searchlight battery at RAF Hunmanby Moor.
3	1426638	The site of Filey coastal battery. The battery has now been demolished, showing only as cropmarks in a field and by broken concrete pushed over cliff.
4	1452727	Second World War tank trap in the form of anti-tank cubes and barbed wire obstruction fence, military buildings and a pillbox.
5	1418820	Anti-boat landing obstable from the Second World War (comprising a line of poles and concrete supports).
6	1496750	Anti-boat landing obstable from the Second World War (comprising concrete cubes and fencing).